MEMORANDUM FOR:
Program Staff

SUBJECT: Coordination Comments on "Speech Insert"
Proposed for use by CINCSAC

1. We have only two brief comments on the speech insert on comparisons of US and Soviet defense costs in dollar terms:

- o The data are in calendar year 1981 dollars, not fiscal year.
- o The data in no way represent Soviet defense expenditures and should not be referred to as such. The Soviets, of course, spend rubles not dollars. The dollar concept measures to what it would cost the US to field and man a force the size of the actual Soviet force and to operate it the way the Soviets do.

We have annotated the draft to take account of these comments.

2. The CIA data quoted in the speech insert is correct. We cannot verify the US weapons' prices.

The CIA data quoted in the speech insert, "Comparison of U.S. - U.S.S.R. Defense expenditures 1972-81," is correct and UNCLASSIFIED. We cannot verify the U.S. weapons' prices.

CIA has two brief comments on the speech insert on comparisons of U.S. and Soviet defense costs in dollar terms:

- a. The data are in calendar year 1981 dollars, not fiscal year.
- b. The data in no way represent Soviet defense expenditures and should not be referred to as such. The Soviets, of course, spend rubles not dollars. The dollar concept measures to what it would cost the U.S. to field and man a force the size of the actual Soviet force and to operate it the way the Soviets do.

We have annotated the draft to take account of these comments.

RECOMMENDED SPEECH INSERT

THE CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY ESTIMATED THAT DURING THE PERIOD
~~THE DOLLAR COST OF~~
1972-81 SOVIET ~~(SPENDING ON)~~ MILITARY RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT,

MILITARY WEAPON SYSTEMS PROCUREMENT, AND MILITARY FACILITIES,

EXCEEDED THAT OF THE UNITED STATES BY ABOUT $519B (CONSTANT

CY81 ~~(FY81)~~ $). THE MAGNITUDE OF THIS GAP IS DIFFICULT TO COMPREHEND

IN TERMS OF PURCHASING POWER SO PERHAPS AN ILLUSTRATION WOULD

BE HELPFUL. HAD WE SPENT THAT $519B DURING THE SAME TIME

PERIOD WE COULD HAVE: BOUGHT AND OPERATED 244 B-1 BOMBERS;

THE ONCE PLANNED PEACEKEEPER MISSILE PROGRAM OF 200 MISSILES AND

4,600 SHELTERS; THE TRIDENT SUBMARINE PROGRAM (10 BOATS) WITH

TRIDENT MISSILES (370 C-4s); THE TOTAL E-4 AIRBORNE COMMAND

POST PROGRAM (6); ALL 34 E-3A AWACS AIRCRAFT; PLUS THE

PLANNED BUY OF F-14s (521), F-15s (749), F-16s (1396), AND

A-10s (743) FOR TACTICAL AIR MODERNIZATION; OVER 7,000 M-1

MAIN BATTLE TANKS AND 81 C-5 TRANSPORTS FOR GLOBAL MOBILITY;

CONSTRUCTED A NEW $70,000 HOUSE FOR EVERY MAN, WOMAN, AND

CHILD IN THE STATE OF NEBRASKA; AND STILL HAD OVER $15B LEFT

OVER. I AM NOT SUGGESTING FOR A MOMENT THAT THIS WOULD HAVE

BEEN A DESIRABLE OR ACHIEVABLE PROGRAM, MERELY HIGHLIGHTING

WHAT A LARGE SUM OF MONEY $519B REALLY IS.

Comparison of US-USSR Defense Expenditures	5 DEC 1983

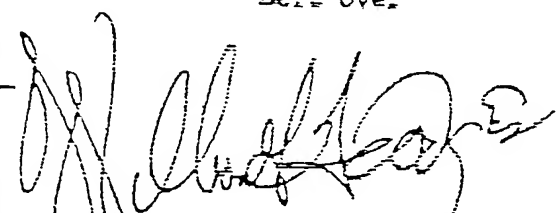

SUMMARY

1. Tab 1 contains a proposed speech insert for CV use which compares US-USSR defense spending imbalance. The insert illustrates the magnitude of the defense spending gap by showing what the US could have bought with the difference ($619B-FY81$). The $619B difference in US-USSR defense spending is quoted from a Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) analysis published in February 1983. A portion of the analysis is at Tab 2 with supporting rationale at Atch 1. The "laundry list" is based on a snapshot of programs as they appeared during the 1970s, and assumes the US would have spent the difference during the same time period.

2. Tabs 3 and 4 contain supporting data and methodology used to construct the speech insert.

-- Total program costs include procurement, RDT&E, and major system-related MILCON.

--- O&M not available; however, CIA says over 1972-81 period, cumulative US total was comprised of:

RDT&E	- 12%
Investment (Procurement & MILCON)	- 25%
O&M	- 63%

-- Using the CIA analysis we have assumed the Investment/RDT&E amount ($183.5B) is only 37% of the total required to field the system (during that time period).

--- Given that assumption:

$$\frac{183.5B}{X} = 37\%$$

X = Total cost (including O&M)

$$X = $495.9B$$

DISCUSSION

- Hypothetical housing purchase constructed to illustrate magnitude of difference in US-USSR defense spending (1972-81, $619B).
- Assumed purchase occurred in 1981.
